Do the right thing

Great Lakes Council Rangers are commending parents and carers for the positive response to their plea last month to obey parking and stopping laws in school zones.

"We are very happy to report that infringements for illegally parking and stopping in school and bus zones were down by 64% on last month" said Council's Manager of Waste, Health and Regulatory Services, Mr John Cavanagh.

"We thank parents and the Great Lakes community for working cooperatively with Council Rangers and the NSW Police to ensure the safety of our children."

The NSW Government assists councils in enforcing local regulatory matters and has made both school zone safety and disabled parking infringements special focus areas for Councils.

"Council has little choice but to issue fines when these offences are committed" said Mr Cavanagh.

"And although our school zone safety is improving, we are not doing so well on parking in disabled car spaces."

"Unfortunately this month Rangers had to issue a whopping $519 fine to 11 people who illegally parked in disabled car spaces" said Mr Cavanagh.

To park in a disabled car space, you must be displaying your approved mobility label on your windscreen as per the requirements of the regulations.

"These regulations are important to give everyone in our community a fair go, and to keep our children safe" said Mr Cavanagh.
